"And further demands the total mobilization of all our resources, material and financial as well as human. Only such a policy can give our armed forces adequate support, ensure the re-education of the members of the services and guarantee the maintenance of full employment."

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

An official statement issued at the end of the closed session said the debate was "marked by considered and moderate statements," that it was recognized "that conscription was already in force and that the order-in-council which made conscription operative was the law of the land."

The statement added: "Almost every speaker condemned the practices of the Liberal and Conservative parties which had used the people of Quebec for their end. Appeals were made by French speakers to consider the issue from the point of view of Canada and Canadians rather than from any sectional viewpoint, and their remarks were greeted with loud applause by the delegates."

Earlier in the day, the 250 delegates coming from all nine provinces gave approval to the remaining 10 sections of an intended 15-point federal election manifesto which had come up for study during the two previous days of the meeting.

2,400,000 Nazi Soldiers Killed In Five Years

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 2.—(CP-Reuters)—From Sept. 1, 1939, to Sept. 1, 1944, 2,400,000 German soldiers were killed on the battlefronts of Europe and Africa according to the Berlin correspondent of the Swedish paper Attentat.

A further 500,000 were so seriously wounded that they will be unable for life, he reported.

The number of deaths through air raids is estimated at 600,000, the correspondent said. Losses are proportionally highest in Russia, an industrial town of the Ruhr and in Hamburg, and lowest in Berlin.

'Doubts' of War's Outcome Banned by Herr Goebbels

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(CP)—Propaganda Minister Goebbels last night struck at public discussion of the war in Germany and declared "no doubts must be expressed as to the final outcome of the war—that is the paramount reality."

He ordered in his weekly article in "Das Reich" magazine that all public discussion of the war situation must cease. A broadcast in the order, heard by Reuters News Agency, said the war was necessary "to protect from the enemy Germany's shortcomings."

"The long duration of the war has certainly brought about difficulties and bottlenecks," the order said. "But we shall be better equipped to overcome these shortcomings, the better we consult them from the enemy."

"I have even been requested their leaders," wrote Goebbels, "according to recurrent reports in the British and neutral press, that German affairs in place of the secluded and long-silent Adolf Hitler."

In Resolution Enforcement of Labor Code Is Asked by Civil Servants

The Civil Service Association of Alberta will ask the government to ensure that no department, board or company under its jurisdiction contravenes provincial labor legislation, according to a resolution passed at the civil service convention Friday afternoon.

Hold Everything

The motion, noting that a government department (the department of trade and industry, under C. E. A. Brathwaite, is responsible for enforcing provincial labor regulations, asks that the executive council issue instructions calling on its departments to set an example to civilian employers in the matter of living up to the provincial labor code. The resolution arose in Calgary branch of the civil service organization.

Discussing the motion, one delegate said the Tradesmen's Qualification Act specifically excludes government employees from its provisions.

Another pointed out that recent changes in minimum wage regulations, women civil servants are working six and one-half hours overtime a week. Working conditions of women employees of the government whose offices are in the Terrace Building were discussed by a third delegate.

No Rest Facilities

It was stated that there were no rest room facilities for 120 women working in the Terrace Building here. When a woman falls in the building, we have to stretch her out on the floor on sheets of paper," the convention was told. "The convention was told that the government was against some regulation."

The motion was carried without discussion and will be taken up with the government by central executive of the civil service body.

One resolution, calling on the government to "seriously consider" having all employees retire when they reach the age of 65 years, or else pay the next employee in line for promotion in a particular case the salary which he would have been entitled had promotion been made in the regular manner, was rejected.

It was pointed out that the civil service association had agreed to waive objections to senior civil servants would be vacated, and the case was then adjourned for one week.

Gosk, who appeared before Magistrate A. I. Miller, K.C., Friday morning, heard the charge read and the case was then adjourned for one week.

Other contributions: "The Navy League of Canada, Alberta," community chests and other war organizations have received contributions, the association president stated. The war services fund, administered by a joint committee of government and Civil Service Association representatives, shows what can be done by organized effort.

He said 200 cigarettes have been sent to military to every civil servant serving in the armed forces, a total of 1,007,000 "smokes" valued at $3,500, being sent overseas since the fund was instituted. The association has kept up for more than a year its "bushy" Mr. McGruher said the general public does not know of the organization, and that many people look upon civil servants as those who hold soft jobs. He added the service today is doing a good job, carrying out government business. He declared the government welcomes the largest possible membership in the association, and assured members of the interest in their affairs and efficiency.

Training Unit of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan brought a sharp curtailing of activities at the Edmonton Aircraft Repair Ltd., several hundred men and women employed there by one or more of the Alaskan Division of the USAF Transport Command as aircraft maintenance workers. At least 400 former Aircraft Repair Ltd. employees are being signed up to work at the Edmonton air base and will replace military personnel who are needed elsewhere.

Money Will Be Cheaper

Little excuse can be found for the approval given by the city commissioners to a further issue of non-callable Edmonton bonds. The issue recommended is for approximately $3,500,000 of money of 17-year 2½ to 3½ percent bonds to replace an amount bearing a higher interest rate.

Commissioner Hodgson's insistence upon making this new issue non-callable is converted in this paper, and for the first time, is being made. For had the present issue, now being replaced, not been callable, it would have been insisted to effect this present large saving in interest rates.

The commissioner argues that interest rates will go up after the war. Whatever fluctuations occur in the future, immediately after the proclamation of peace, they cannot be higher. The Bank of Canada has already said that the amount of 3 percent will be considered excessive.

And Finance Minister Hellyer himself has pledged the government to the maintenance of cheaper money.

The trend in Britain, the trend in the United States and, indeed, the very necessity to protect the value of Victory Bonds all indicate a permanent depression in interest charges. After the war, a rate of 3 percent will be considered excessive.

Thus, after the war, the permanent trend will be downward, long before these bonds reach maturity.

Commissioner Hodgson argues, too, that non-callable bonds will net the city a higher price than new bonds.

That certainly is true. But the extra revenue so derived would be infinitesimal compared to the saving that can be effected in an issue that will permit an interest readjustment according to the certain lower interest rates.

These bonds should and must be callable. Any other arrangement is merely throwing away the taxpayers' money.

Conscription Is Law

One thing that should be understood in the House of Commons, in the cabinet and throughout Canada, is that conscription is the law of this country. It has been the law for several years. There is no need to repeal it for it no longer covers the needs of all the troops.

Not is it necessary nor desirable to further debate the issue. It was debated fully in 1917 and again in 1942. The only difference between the conditions, those dates and at the present is that the need for a complete and equitable employment policy is much more acute now than ever before.

The war is at a critical stage. What Canada does or does not do at this minute may determine the general trend of affairs in the field.

Under conscription, which is the lawful method of drafting men into the armed forces, a large number of fighting men have been trained to a high state of efficiency in Canada. They are aided by their officers to fit for combat and to overcome the difficulties of the war.

It should be remembered that they have been drafted and trained under a legitimate and long-standing policy which has been attached to them.

To attach opprobrium to the word "conscription" is to slander the excellent troops of Britain, the United States, Russia, France and other Allied nations.

It should be a primary purpose of the defence department to remove all distinctions between drafted and volunteer fighting forces. The status of all these men is exactly what the Canadian authorities have made it.

As was recognized in Canada in 1917 and in 1942 and is recognized now with unanimous force throughout the world, conscription is the only effective way to maintain an army in the field under conditions of total war. Both in the United States and in Britain, the nation depended on the call unitarily. They volunteered collectively. And conscription is no more than that. Conscription is the only way to have a possible answer to the challenge of total war.

Under conscription has been brought in,
in Canada, in a piecemeal fashion. It has been a stamp of ignominy.

This is a most improper and illogical procedure. Conscription is neither a measure nor a dishonorable measure.
Demanding equal service from all who enjoy equal privileges, it is one of the highest expressions of justice.

It is high time that conscription was placed in a right light before the people of Canada.

Christmas Extras

The food ministry in London has announced special concessions which are planned to make Britain's sixth wartime Christmas season joyous in comparison with the other five. Starting on December 10th, meat rations will go up about 40 per cent for a four-week period, children up to 15 years will be allowed to buy an extra half pound of Christmas cake and every person over the age of 70 will be able to get an extra half-ounce of tea, per week.
It is presumed, but not stated. There are to be extra allowances also of margarine and sugar.

Canadians, now in possession of ration book No. 5, will wonder what previous wartime Christmas in Britain have been like.
It is almost beyond credence that the limit to which the food ministry is able to go in order to lend unusual festivity to the coming season.

The Canadian householder will not have to tear out any coupons to buy meat, of any kind or in any quantity. He is free to buy any kind on sight. He doesn't have to count the slices of tea or coffee or jam or butter or consume, nor hand over any coupons on that account. Butter is still rationed, and scarce than it was in 1917, but rationing to require substitutes. Sugar is also rationed, but on a scale that causes no one to worry.

Scanning this pitiful list of "extras" which are to make Christmas "merrier" than it has been for five years in the country Dickens wrote about, what Canadian will fail to see and to thank God that the lines have fallen to him in a land of plenty?

A Tokyo broadcast says the British fleet which has been based in the Indian ocean is now operating in the Pacific. The guess is chiefly interesting because it betrays a keen anxiety that London may draw a hint as to where that very considerable sea force is. It is to be suspected the anxiety will not be allayed by London's only response to the submarine threat have sunk 69 Jap ships in five days.

Abraham Lincoln Warned Us

By Elmore Phillips in The Vancouver Sun
If some foolish Canadians are apprehensive because of a small minority of the so-called Zombies, who are half-and-half eager to fight under conscription than they are to fight under the laws of the greatest demerit of our age.

I refer, of course, to Lincoln, the Greatest of Americans. Lincoln has faced the whole problem of conscription versus the "voluntary" system as Lincoln. No one can being ever wrote so truthfully of the conscription system as Lincoln. He was in the national debate of his country at that time.
He was the only one who was

Apostolic Lighthouse Plans Special Opening Services Premier Manning to Speak

Latest addition to Edmonton's growing church community, the new Apostolic Lighthouse, 97 street at 101A avenue, opens for services on Sunday. Under construction since April, the new church will seat 600 persons. A one-story brick structure, it will cost in the neighborhood of $20,000 on completion, and will be the first permanent home of the Apostolic Lighthouse in the city, after a ministry here of upwards of 10 years.

Services on Sunday will begin with Holy Communion at 11 a.m. Actual dedication ceremonies will be held at 3 p.m., and an evangelistic service will be held in the evening at 7 p.m.

Opening services will be under the direction of Dr. Booth-Clibborn, Portland, Ore., a noted evangelist, Bible teacher and musician, who is a grandson of the late General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army. Premier Benson Manning is scheduled to address the Sunday evening service.

Sunday Schools Outline Plans Post-War Years

Postwar plans of the World's Sunday School Association, which is expanding on three continents, restoration of personnel and services in 23 countries where religious education work has been badly or partly disrupted, and development of facilities for improving religious teaching methods, Dr. Forrest L. Knapp, general secretary of the association, has announced.

To carry out the program, the association recently issued the task of raising a half million dollars to be used during the first five postwar years. A quarter of this amount will be raised by the association's British administrative committee, under the direction of Dr. James Kelly of Glasgow, Scotland. The balance will be sought in this country.

Work of postwar rehabilitation in European countries will generally be administered through the British administrative committee. Reconstructions in Asia, Africa, South America, the Philippine Islands, China, Japan, Korea, India, Ceylon, Burma, and Australia will be administered by the American committee. Only 19 of the 52 countries in which the association has member councils have escaped the ravages of war.

Dr. Knapp stated that more than three-fifths of the total postwar budget for the five-year period would be assigned to restoring pre-war services. For many of these countries blue print plans for proceeding with rehabilitation have been prepared.

TO SEND REPRESENTATIVES
The association will send representatives to re-establish contact with former leaders or to find new ones to lead the Christian churches. The national leaders, in turn, will be responsible for having curriculum materials prepared, reviving teacher-training institutes, and restoring youth work in the churches.

It is likely that national council treasuries will be empty for some time to come, the association will make emergency grants to at least one person in each of the 23 countries on a "breathing scale for five years." At the end of this time it is expected that the work will be sufficiently restored to make further grants for personnel unnecessary.

The association's expansion plans include appointment of a field secretary for tropical Africa, a field representative, a field secretary for Latin America, and a field service personnel for the Muslim near east.

For its teacher improvement program the association expects to establish and support five new demonstration and experimental centres. It will also enable religious education leaders to visit and counsel with workers in other countries. Six to ten bulletins will be published by the association annually through a World Fellowship in Christian Education.

FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS
Dr. Knapp said the postwar program includes plans for preparing Sunday School materials for adult literature in conjunction with growth literacy projects under way in many countries.

Among the more imperative postwar "musts" in the field of worldwide Christian education, Dr. Knapp stressed, will be the need to find ways of providing religious education outside state-controlled systems of general education.

Reopen Centres Of Belgian YMCA

All YMCA centres in liberated Belgium have been reopened, according to word received at headquarters of the YMCA World Emergency Fund in New York City. The centres are located in the eight largest cities, and numbers are "renewed and enthusiastic" to make their YMCA a great and active force in the reconstruction of Belgium life, reports state.

The YMCA quarters were confiscated by German occupation authorities in November, 1942, and turned over to pro-Nazi women's groups. Only actual damage to buildings reported so far is the summer camp at Louette, St. Knappe, but typewriters, sewing machines, books, medical gear, cooking and other equipment were carried off by the Germans before the liberation.

Habit of Worship Stated Declining

While there is "general widespread interest in religion" in England, many Britons have "lost the habit of worship" because of wartime conditions, the Rev. G. Ashton Oldham, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Albany, declared on his return from an official visit to the United States. He will be in charge of the church at 101A avenue on Sunday. He will speak at three services 11 a.m., 3 and 7 p.m. He is an outstanding Bible teacher, evangelist and musician. The opening services will be in charge of the Rev. H. C. Allcock, pastor of the church.

Bishop Oldham expressed the opinion that "it is going to be rather hard for the Church" in England after the war, but that church leaders there are taking a realistic attitude toward the future.

Keen interest in religion among American troops was reported by Bishop Oldham, which has led to services at all altitudes, and that chaplains are frequently consulted on problems of a personal nature. Bishop Oldham revealed that he was one of the last persons to see the late Archbishop of Canterbury before the latter's sudden death, and that he had opportunity to discuss with him a number of mutual problems of the Protestant Episcopal Church and the Church of England. His report will be submitted to the Presiding Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church and will not be made public.

Church Offerings Show Large Gains

Church offerings made by Protestants in Canada and the United States during the last year surpassed their offerings the previous year by more than $3,000,000. The stewardship council of the 23 Protestant churches reporting their receipts, has announced that last year's gifts of $41,000,000 were the largest since 1931.

As happened following the last war, it is expected that the marked increase in offerings during the past four years may continue to climb after the peace when bond sales and war funds are discontinued.

Emphasis on the teaching of Christian stewardship, as well as the sponsoring of certain war emergency projects, may continue to contribute by church officials for larger contributions made by their members.

Ninety per cent of the world's nickel supply comes from Canada.

Bishop Urges Program to Aid Smaller Groups

Recognition by states of the liberties and rights of men and "clear acknowledgement of man's personal dignity irrespective of race, creed, or color" was urged here by the Most Rev. Bernard Griffin, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Westminster, in proposing a program to combat anti-Semitism and persecution of all minorities.

Speaking before the British Council of Christian and Jews, Archbishop Griffin called for a common pledge to observe the laws of God "and fulfill our duties to Him and our fellow men." He urged a deepening mutual understanding of ideals and differences between Christians and Jews, and solemn promise "to protect effectively those who may be oppressed persecuted on account of race, nationality, or creed."

STRONG PLEA
A strong plea for study and action on the lines of the interfaith "Pact for Peace" issued by American Protestants, Catholics, and Jews last year was made by Dr. Newton Felt, moderator designate of the Free Church Federal Council.

He reported to the Council that youth movements in Great Britain are alive to the dangers of anti-Semitism. The Boy Scout Association and the National Association of Boys Clubs, it was said, had

Lauds Work Done By India Mission

High praise for the thorough work being done in India's Kangra Valley by the Canadian Church Mission of the Church of England in Canada has come to church headquarters from Capt. P. S. Burnett, directorate of organization of the India Command.

"It is amazing to find how comprehensive is the mission's work," writes Capt. Burnett. "As one expects, there are churches, schools and hospitals, and what is a laudable feature is being carried upon every sphere of the district's life. From his two years in Canada, stationed in north-west Saskatchewan and also observation of Canadian missionaries at Kangra—Capt. C. R. H. Wilkinson and the Rev. G. G. Gutteridge, who are Christian India's problems can be solved and her future assured."

Both appointed interfaith commissions from among their members to study and what the situation, Lord Perth, vice-president of the Council, suggested that full adherence to the Atlantic Charter would banish anti-Semitism.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

Suffering

THE WORLD wages a continual war against suffering. Suffering is an evil, a blot on creation. If we avoid it, if we are social-conscious, we help others to avoid it. That is why we have hospitals, relief agencies, orphanages, soup kitchens.

Of its own nature, suffering is a bad thing. We remember that when Christ met the leper, the leprosy fell as an evil from his presence. But this is what we should also remember: suffering can be turned into a good thing if, recognizing God's will, we accept it for ourselves, or make it the focus of our charity toward others.

A man has been bedridden for 20 years and in pain most of the time. But he bears his lot in patience because that is manifestly the will of God. Is he not following the example of St. Paul who spoke of himself as paying back part of a debt owing to Christ. Who redeemed us by the agony of his death? Does not faith assure us that such men never suffer without reward?

Suffering is an evil, but it is also the inspiration of a tremendous amount of good. By fighting war, nursing the sick, feeding the hungry, caring for the helpless, we become partners of Christ. Suffering is like an electric light bulb when it isn't burning. There is nothing inside it but an apparently useless piece of wire. But switch on the current—the current of religion, of charity—and it becomes a glowing mass. Suffering is part of the imperfection of human life, but there is a spirit in all of us that makes it a pathway to perfection.

The winter season of the "City for God" evangelistic campaign. The exercises were followed by luncheon at the Manor House at which the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Frank Wilkinson, presided. The centre piece of the table was a statue presented to the City of London in 1941 by citizens of Ohio to whom the Lord Mayor sent greetings.

The luncheon was attended by many civic and industrial leaders.

A Tribute to Dad

By Ernest O. Mabry
Some of the men that are here to day
Are the best that the world has
There is only one that beats them
And he happens to be my dad.

I go to him when I'm happy
And also when I'm sad,
Each day I like to spend some time
Just talking with my dad.

I always like to talk with him,
Especially when I'm blue,
Sometimes it's awful surprising
What a talk with dad will do.

Now that I am in the army
And away from dear old dad,
He's the best friend I ever had.
He's the kind of person
That makes a son feel glad,
To go into the service now,
To fight and win for dad.

Discursive Importance
It makes use of conferences—both regional and international. The Oxford Conference in 1937 was the episode of decision in the history of this process. That conference was the result of years of preparation which was carried on by the study department and it formulated many fully that had been the case before in modern times the conferences held by evangelists rather by their more progressive leaders—concerning Church and State, racial discrimination, war, economic justice and education.

There are and will remain serious differences of opinion between the churches. But the area of cooperation has been broadened by this experience and there is vastly more mutual understanding of the differences. There is even widespread recognition that particular opinions are totally partial—each one's own and the opinion one's own denomination—and that all of us need the correction that comes from a better understanding of opposing views. There is here a combination of tolerance and common sense.

The World Council of Churches

The Council's Research and Study Work

By JOHN COLEMAN BENNETT
Professor of Christian Theology, Ethics Union Theological Seminary, New York

One of the major interests of the World Council of Churches is its study department which is engaged in a continuous process of cooperative thinking across all national and denominational lines.

The international chairman of this department is Professor Henry P. Van Dusen, the president of the Union Theological Seminary, New York. The department has its beginnings in 1925 at the Stockholm Conference on Life and Work and until 1927 was part of the organization continuing the work of the Stockholm Conference, which was called The Universal Christian Council for Life and Work. It emphasized in particular the teaching of work of the Church in relation to social and economic issues. In recent years the study department has broadened its work to include all aspects of Christian theology and ethics which have Christian action in the world.

OFFICE IN GENEVA
The study department has its headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland. It has two permanent secretaries, Dr. Hans Thurnwald and Rev. Nils Kjerfveit. It is also a special concern of Dr. W. A. Visser 't Hooft, the general secretary of the World Council of Churches, whose immediate supervision it has been in connection with all that concerns the influence of the church on civil society.

These three men have been in Geneva during the past year, and have acted as a staff of general staff for the churches. They have been in contact with the Christians in most of the countries of Europe. They have succeeded in keeping alive and strong the Christian co-operation in western Europe and the Scandinavian countries, and to some extent in Germany.

We know that in this way beyond our expectation churches in all of these countries have studied and discussed the same memoranda and some of which have been prepared in Britain and America. In spite of the spiritual and cultural differences of most of the Christians in the world, the Christians in the world have succeeded in keeping alive and strong the Christian co-operation in western Europe and the Scandinavian countries, and to some extent in Germany.

One of the most remarkable tendencies of the life of the contemporary church is the breaking down of the walls of partition in thought. Never before in Christian history have there been such free flow of ideas across all of the traditional barriers—national, religious and cultural. The study of the church has done a great deal, considering the small staff with which it operates, to stimulate and guide this flow of ideas.

Recently word has come from Britain that a similar group has been formed there under the leadership of Professor John R. H. Billie of Edinburgh and Canon Alex. Richardson of Glasgow. It is a correspondence between these two groups which has been bringing about a better understanding among American and British thinkers.

MACHINERY EXISTS
The machinery now exists for this kind of communication and co-operative thinking can be brought into much more effective use as soon as the war is over. We will not have to wait long to find out how this machinery can be used in the occupied countries and in Germany. Already we know a good deal about the machinery that will be the restoration of differences.

There is even widespread recognition that particular opinions are totally partial—each one's own and the opinion one's own denomination—and that all of us need the correction that comes from a better understanding of opposing views. There is here a combination of tolerance and common sense.

Discursive Importance
It makes use of conferences—both regional and international. The Oxford Conference in 1937 was the episode of decision in the history of this process. That conference was the result of years of preparation which was carried on by the study department and it formulated many fully that had been the case before in modern times the conferences held by evangelists rather by their more progressive leaders—concerning Church and State, racial discrimination, war, economic justice and education.

There are and will remain serious differences of opinion between the churches. But the area of cooperation has been broadened by this experience and there is vastly more mutual understanding of the differences. There is even widespread recognition that particular opinions are totally partial—each one's own and the opinion one's own denomination—and that all of us need the correction that comes from a better understanding of opposing views. There is here a combination of tolerance and common sense.

Old-Timer Dies

Entwistle Man Dies at Age 74

ENTWISTLE—Edward Percy (E.P.) Smith, 74 years old, died here on Nov. 22. He was born at Inglestone, Essex, Eng., on Feb. 10, 1870. He was one of seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Smith, four of whom still live in England.

Edward Percy attended a private boys' school in Inglestone and a grammar school in London. He tried various occupations and was a cashier for the William Whiteley Company for some years. After one brother, Herbert, went to South Africa and another, Alfred, received a high army commission in India, Edward Percy decided to try his fortune in Canada.

He arrived in 1907, spent one year at Smith Falls, Ont., then came here for the harvest of 1908 when he spent three months on the farm of Mr. Bevan of Spruce Grove. From there he travelled to the Pembina River on horseback and there was no railroad here then.

HOMESTEADED—E. P. selected a homesteaded three miles south of Entwistle which continued to be his home until his death.

In March, 1909, he walked to Edmonton to meet his bride-to-be who came from Smith Falls. A few days later Mr. and Mrs. Smith were at their Entwistle home, having travelled from Edmonton by stage. At that time there were only four white women in Entwistle, one of them, Mrs. J. Abernethy, still resides here.

Gradually by much hard work and perseverance Mr. Smith transformed the wooded homestead into a farm.

He became a well-known and respected member of the community in whose affairs he took a sincere interest. For many years E. P. served on the board of Brightwood school in which his daughter now teaches.

He leaves to mourn his death his wife, one daughter, Minnie; a son-in-law, Harry Harris; a son, grandson, Charlie, all in Canada. Also two sisters: Mrs. M. Blackford, Mrs. F. Owen, and two brothers, Frederick and Alfred, all in England.

Army Camp Forms Badminton League

McDonald, manager of the skating rink, has announced that the ice will be put in shape this week. Miss Beth Reddock, Calgary, Girl Guide field secretary, paid a visit to the local corps this week. Plans are being made to organize a Ranger Company.

Loses Cheque

VANCOUVER, Dec. 2.—(CP)—A Rainwell, retired farmer from Fairview, Alta., reported to police Thursday that he lost a cheque for $12,000 in the downtown area here some time within the past two days. The cheque was made out in his name from the Soldiers' Settlement Board to whom he had sold his Fairview farm.

Teen Town Club Formed at Olds

OLDS—Being a member of the Olds Town Council these days is a strenuous affair. It was necessary to hold three meetings this last week to complete the amount of business before it.

The request of the Orina Chapter, IOOE, Miss Doreen Thayer and Mrs. Helen Smith interviewed the Council regarding the establishment of a Teen Town club ranging in years from 12 to 19. They asked the use of a club house three nights a week and a grant of $50 to help start such an organization. Both these requests were granted. Mrs. C. M. Becker, president of the Home and School Association and Mrs. John Bush also interviewed the council asking that it pass a curfew by-law. The committee for by-laws were asked to prepare such as brought before the council at the December meeting, stating that children under 16 years must not be on the streets after 8 p.m. during the winter months and 9 p.m. in the summer.

A grant of $750 was also toward the building of a nurses home at the local hospital. The Mountain View women's auxiliary has already granted $500 toward this project. The most important discussions, however, were the Provincial Housing Plan and the petition signed by a large number of taxpayers, asking that as soon as possible a waterworks and sewerage system be installed in Olds. Low interest money is the chief problem and the council is investigating this and hopes to handle both these problems.

On Wednesday night the Rev. F. C. Masson, formerly of the Cariboo diocese, was inducted as rector of the Olds Anglican parish in St. John's church by the Rt. Rev. H. R. Ragg, Anglican Bishop of Calgary, assisted by the Rev. Canon W. E. Herbert and the Rev. Canon Winter of Calgary. The Rev. W. R. Hudson, of Lacombe, rural Dean R. Lang, of Red Deer, and the Rev. J. Haig, of Innisfail.

After the service, the women's auxiliary entertained the visiting clergy, friends and congregation, in the parish hall. The choir girls assisting in service.

Mr. Bryden was an ardent follower of sports, being manager-coach with the first ball club organized in Mannville. He was the first president of the Mannville Old Timers Association, and past president of the Agricultural Society. At the time of his death he was a director of the Vermilion Farmers Association.

He was born in Clinton, Ont., in October 1880 and homesteaded in the Mannville district in 1904, having resided here since.

Appoint Executive Fish, Game League

Spokesmen from the cities are not getting the right protection by the provincial government, according to C. E. Brown, who spoke at a meeting of the Northern Alberta Fish and Game Protective League in the Corns hotel Friday evening. Mr. Brown spoke on "Pheasants and Ducks" and told his audience that the game bird season in the Edmonton district was no good. The regulations were too strict, and the game was being protected by the provincial government and not by the local branches. # Rehabilitated RCAF Airgunner Finds New Life As Sleeping Car Conductor Proves Interesting

A job that calls for constant vigilance is the one that Paul Bellman, 23, has found in his new position as sleeping car conductor on the Canadian National Railway. The youthful Edmontonian, who served in the RCAF as an airgunner, is now finding his new life as a sleeping car conductor. He is a young man who is still in the RCAF.

By JACK DELONG

Brown-eyed, wistful young Paul Bellman of 10139 104 street, finds life full as interesting, if not quite so thrilling, as when he served as an airgunner in the RCAF.

For Paul still wears a handsome uniform and still has a position of responsibility. He doesn't peer through the sights of a machinegun from the rear of a Wellington bomber any more, and he doesn't worry about finding the home landing strip from high above blacked-out Britain.

Instead he collects tickets from west-bound passengers on the way to Vancouver and those going east for Edmonton about three times each week.

And "birds" as he is known in his close friends, is happy as a lark at his new job as sleeping car conductor on the Canadian National Railway's crack Continental Limited, running between Edmonton and Vancouver.

YOUNGEST ON JOB

Bellman, at 23 years old, is the youngest sleeping car conductor on the Edmonton-Vancouver run. He's been holding the job down for six weeks and figures he's doing just fine. Prior to being accepted for student run as a conductor he was a steward on the dining cars on the same train.

"I missed the boys in the air force when I first came out of the service and I spent a lot of time for a long time. All my pals were gone. But I went to work in a hurry after getting my commission on medical grounds, and I certainly strongly recommend other boys being discharged to do the same thing," Bellman said.

"I have no complaints in civilian life when I first came out of the air force and I also felt mighty homesick. I wanted to get right back in again. There was always something to do in the air force. It seemed," the former airgunner said.

VALUABLE TRAINING

An fine training is highly valuable and provides a young fellow for responsible work in civilian life, Bellman stated.

"I certainly like the work I am doing now. I meet as many different kinds of people and so many interesting people. Then I'm always meeting fellows from the air force who have just come back or who are just going over and fellows in the army and navy who are on their way to or returning from overseas. It's great fun to start talking over all the things on the train and hear what they have been doing and what they are doing now."

"It often makes me homesick for those places again," he sighed. The latest in interesting passengers have been the British war brides.

Weathering away about Freshwater, Canada, and Law, Canada and spots in Scotland and it seems just like meeting people from your old home. I'm always on the lookout for one of my Old Country sweethearts, but haven't seen any one yet," the young conductor said.

His superiors seemed to think Paul a terrific young man for a sleeping car conductor. I would feel a chance at the job so I asked them if I would increase my chances. I got married, but they gave me a real tryout without having to resign to such drastic measures, Bellman said with a laugh.

BORN HERE

Born in Edmonton, Bellman attended Queen's Avenue and 27th Avenue public and Victoria high schools. After leaving school he worked for a time as a bus driver in a city. He came in the RCAF at 18 and was in the RCAF in Calgary and Muskoka as a wireless operator.

He spent about a year overseas.

Former Airgunner, Sleeper Conductor at 23

It's quite a change indeed from thumbing the triggers of a gun on a Wellington bomber to collecting tickets from passengers on a Canadian National Railway sleeping car between Edmonton and Vancouver.

Paul Bellman of 10139 104 street, shown above, just before his train pulled out for the coast, thinks his job unbeatable for a young fellow coming out of the services. He likes meeting so many people each trip.

with a Wellington bomber squad and was just starting his final operational tour when his stomach started acting up. "After getting the medical 'works' in Britain he was returned to Canada and he was ordered to resign to return to medical duty. He had the rank of sergeant airgunner at the time.

A brother, Flying Officer W.A. Bellman, was the Distinguished Flying Cross a few months ago for gallantry while serving with a Halifax bombing squadron.

PO. Bellman completed 28 operational flights and is now serving as an instructor in Britain.

His mother, Mrs. L. Bellman, resides at 404 104th avenue.

RIGHT AT HOME

Many of his fellow train crew members have served overseas either in the present or the last war, so they make Paul feel right at home.

Despite his youth, conductor Bellman has a serious outlook and takes a keen interest in many things, to an extent rather unusual for one of his age. He is a member of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion, BEM.

"Civilian life is hard to get used to but adjusting comes with time, patience and activity," Conductor Bellman states.

Export Controls On Many Items To Be Removed

OTTAWA, Dec. 2.—(CP)—Trade Minister Mackinnon announced here last night that about 175 groups of commodities will be removed Dec. 11 from the export permit regulations.

He said the effect of the action would be to exempt such commodities—ranging from fence posts and furs to machine tools and cosmetics—from the requirement of an export permit when shipped to friendly countries or the United States.

In addition, Mr. Mackinnon announced that various other commodities valued at $25 and $100 or less, will be exempted from requiring export permits.

The minister said the step was "in accordance with the policy of my department to relax export permit restrictions as soon as a firm trend toward progressive improvement in the general supply position became evident."

RUBBER PRODUCTS

Rubber products valued at $5 or less are also exempted under the relaxing of the export control regulations.

The minister said the step was "in accordance with the policy of my department to relax export permit restrictions as soon as a firm trend toward progressive improvement in the general supply position became evident."

TORONTO, Dec. 2.—(CP)—Trade Minister Mackinnon, in a speech read here last night at the annual meeting of the Canadian Exporters' Association, said there would be further relaxation of export control restrictions "in the near future."

Mr. Mackinnon, held in Ottawa by the special session of parliament, made an announcement there on the lifting of export control restrictions on a wide range of articles. His speech was read to the association by Oliver A. Hart, deputy trade minister.

Mr. Mackinnon's speech said that as a result of the relaxed controls, export permits for a wide range of commodities would no longer be needed on shipments to any part of the British Empire or the United States, and permits would be issued freely "generally speaking" on such commodities for other parts of the world.

Furs and fur skins were removed from the export control schedule. Paper and board manufacturers, except for a few more specified items, were taken out of export permit control.

EXEMPTIONS GRANTED

Many important exemptions were granted in the group of iron and steel products that came under the export control schedule. Included in this list were metal and wood working machine tools and machinery, precision instruments, iron ore and concentrates, pig iron, automobile tire service equipment and parts, dredging machinery and electrical conduits.

Aluminum and all aluminum products have been removed from the schedule as have many other non-ferrous metals and their products, such as magnesium and mercury. There was a $100 exemption allowed on certain paper and paper products on abrasives of all kinds and on lamps and lanterns.

"In addition to the foregoing," the speech said, "the export restrictions are being eased under arrangements whereby all textile products, paints, soap, turpentine, candles, waxes, agricultural implements and machinery and rubber products will be exempt from export permit requirements up to certain minimum values."

Mr. Mackinnon's speech said that trade figures disclosed that Canada now was the second largest export nation in the world. He added: "Remarkable as it is, I do not wish to lay undue stress upon it because it comes about partly by reason of the fact that in war we export Britain has been forced to allow her own exports to fall to a low level."

A SNOWY NIGHT

THE Teenie Weenies had finished their supper. The Cook was putting away the last of his cooking pans and the General and the Doctor had begun their regular evening game of Teenie Weenie checkers. It was cold outside and a couple of logs cut from a lead pencil burned brightly in the Teenie Weenie fireplace.

"It's going to be stormy soon," remarked the Old Soldier with a wooden leg as he came puffing in with several extra logs for the fire.

"Much cold. Maybe much snow," grunted the Indian, who had dropped in from his little birch bark hut near the Teenie Weenie village.

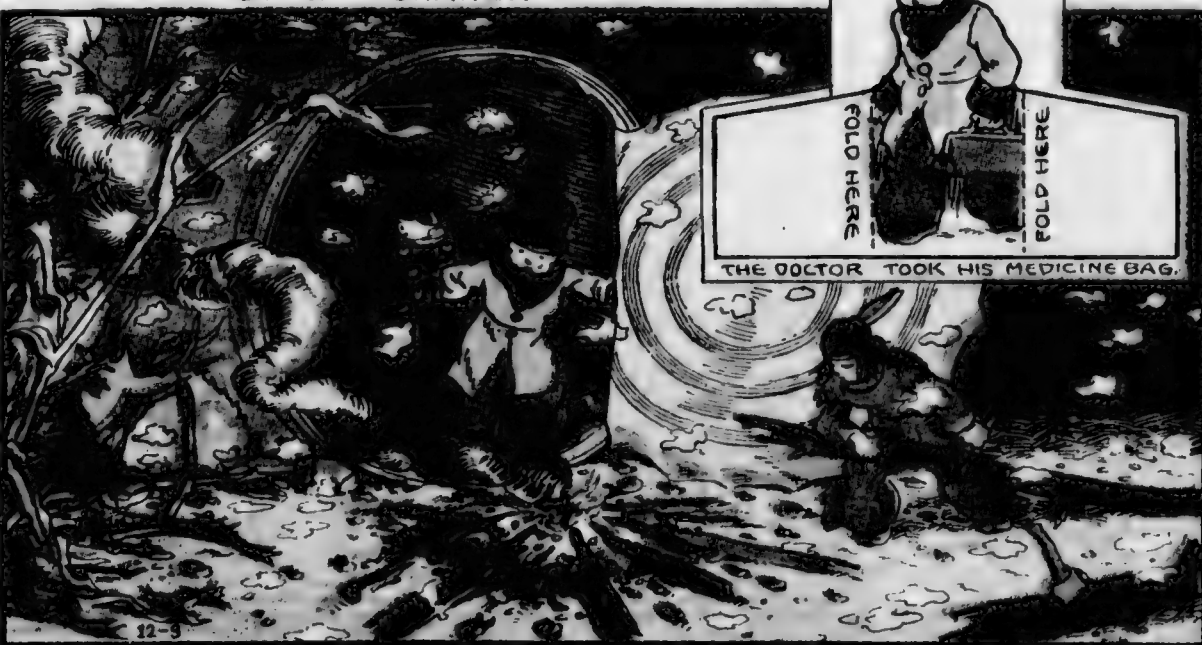

"Well, let it snow," said the Old Soldier. "We have plenty of wood and—" The Old Soldier never finished the sentence, for at that moment there was a loud knocking at the front door. The Sailor opened the door and a mouse stood on the porch. The mouse's brother had been badly wounded in a fight with another mouse and the Doctor was wanted.

The Doctor took his little medicine case, put on his coat lined with caterpillar fur and started to follow the mouse. The Policeman thought he had better go with the Doctor and the Indian made signs that he would go along, too. "Heap bad night," said the Indian. "Maybe storm come. Me go, too."

It was a mighty good thing that the Indian decided to go along, for it was a long way to the mouse's house and through a dense woods where the Indian could easily lead the way.

The TEENIE WEEENIES

BY WM. DONAHEY.

The mouse had been badly chewed up in a fight. After the Doctor had treated him, the little men set off for home. Soon big, soft snowflakes began to fall. Occasional twigs falling from tree branches overhead made walking dangerous for such little people as the Teenie Weenies. Presently the Indian pointed toward a tin can that lay under a bush. "Much danger to walk in woods in storm. Me build fire."

The Doctor and the Policeman stepped into the shelter of the can while the Indian gathered some very small twigs and some dried pine needles. Then fishing a tiny box from his shirt pocket, he took out a bit of dry thistle-down. With his tiny piece of flint and a bit of steel, he quickly struck a spark which set fire to the thistle-down and that in turn kindled the pine needles and twigs. Soon he had a fine fire roaring in front of the can.

The storm was over by daylight and the three set off for home. They arrived just in time to eat a fine breakfast of Teenie Weenie corn cakes and fried frog ham.
